Dear Parents, Guardians, and Students,

Creating a school-wide culture of reading has always been a priority for the teachers, librarians, and literacy specialists in the Brookline Public Schools. In each school that culture is built and nurtured in myriad ways—through the study of literary elements, read-alouds, book talks, literature circles, genre studies, author visits, evening parent/child book events, independent reading projects, participation in Massachusetts Book Awards and summer reading.

Summer is a perfect time to find books to read for pleasure. This list is a starting point to help you select books that match your interests and includes a variety of titles across many genres, levels, and lengths. Students are encouraged to read at least 5 or 6 books. Our goal is to develop readers who not only can read, but who choose to read for enjoyment.

Summer reading is also a great opportunity to hone your reading skills and maintain your fluency. According to a recent report from John Hopkins University’s Center for Summer Learning children who do not read over the summer actually lose ground in reading proficiency. The report concludes that the effect of reading four or five books during the summer is large enough to prevent a decline in reading scores from spring to fall.

In addition to this list, Brookline’s public libraries and bookstores offer a wealth of titles and suggestions to help you find just the right book for your enjoyment.

Explore. Read. Enjoy,

Yum, Hyewon. Saturday Is Swimming Day

New things can be scary — but as one endearing little girl discovers, it's perfectly fine to take your time.

Authors to Explore

Denise Fleming.

Fleming employs an unusual technique called pulp painting to create her color-saturated illustrations of adorable children and animals. Many of her books focus on nature, such as "Time to Sleep" or "In the Tall Tall Grass."

Donald Crews.

Donald Crews accompanies his simple stories about trains, trucks, school buses and planes with bold, colorful illustrations. If your little reader likes anything that goes, introduce him or her to these books.

Eric Carle.

Nobody does animals like this iconic author and illustrator. Try one of his famous books like "The Very Hungry Caterpillar," or some of his lesser-known gems like "10 Little Rubber Ducks" or "Head to Toe."

Ezra Jack Keats.

Caldecott award winner Ezra Jack Keats has written and illustrated over twenty books depicting the ordinary, everyday experiences of the life of a child. In books such as "The Snowy Day" and "Peter's Chair" he uses a combination of collage and watercolor.

Gail Gibbons.

Gail Gibbons has written and illustrated more than 150 wonderful nonfiction books for young readers exploring a range of topics from animals and plants to vehicles and the solar system.

Grace Lin.

Grace Lin draws on her Chinese-American background to write and illustrate wonderful stories about simple joys and everyday things; a Dim Sum meal, flying a kite, or the unfortunate result of sneezing during a haircut.

Jerry Pinkney.

Caldecott award winner Jerry Pinkney’s watercolor illustrations bring folktales such as "The Little Red Hen" and "The Lion and the Mouse" vividly to life.

Kevin Henkes.

Kevin Henkes has that midas touch, everything he does comes off beautifully. He has written and illustrated many beloved books. For PK, his simple ones such as "Kitten's First Full Moon" or "Old Bear" are the best, while "Chrysanthemum" and "Wemberly Worried" speak to older children.

Lois Ehlert.

In stories such as "Growing Vegetable Soup" and "Snowballs," Lois Ehlert explores nature through colorful collage illustrations and spare text.
